

CORONAVIRUS AID, RELIEF, AND ECONOMIC SECURITY ACT (CARES ACT)

ADDED RELIEF FOR RETIREMENT PLAN PARTICIPANTS

As you know, the current pandemic has changed the way we are socializing, working and living every day. But it's also causing unprecedented financial hardships and hurdles for millions of individuals, families, households and businesses across the country as they attempt to push forward.

In an effort to provide support and protection to the increasing number of people who have been financially impacted by the COVID-19 crisis, Congress passed the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (CARES Act). Aimed at assisting all those in need, from laid-off employees to small-business owners to retirement savers, the massive stimulus package includes several retirement plan provisions. Please take a moment to learn more about how the CARES Act may affect you and your South Carolina Deferred Compensation Program (Deferred Comp) account.

THINGS TO KEEP IN MIND

It is important that you understand the impact of taking a distribution from your Deferred Comp account early. Taking a loan or withdrawing money from your retirement plan account early should be a last resort; however, we understand this may be your only option.

Taking an early withdrawal from your account may raise your taxable income and create a greater tax burden than if you wait until you are retired, when your income level and tax rate may be lower. In addition, taking a withdrawal or a loan could result in missing out on potential tax-deferred growth, because you will have less money invested in your retirement plan account. Finally, selling investments to take a withdrawal after the markets have experienced significant declines may mean taking an overall loss on your retirement plan contributions.

Loans are repaid with money that has already been taxed, so your loan payments generally will be taxed twice — once when you make the loan payments and again when you withdraw your money at retirement. In addition, interest on the loan is not tax deductible. Finally, with a loan, you may not have the resources to contribute to your retirement plan while making loan payments, or you may be tempted to lower your contribution amount. This can reduce your long-term retirement plan account balance and further stall the growth of your retirement savings.

Before making decisions about taking money out of your retirement plan account, please discuss your options with a tax professional or your local retirement plan advisor. ### DEFERRED COMP HAS ADOPTED THE FOLLOWING CORONAVIRUS-RELATED PROVISIONS

Penalty-free withdrawal

Even though you're encouraged to stay the course and keep saving for your future, everyone's situation is unique. If you qualify based on the above factors, you can request a coronavirus-related distribution of up to $100,000 through December 2020.

The 10 percent IRS tax on pre-age-59½ early withdrawals (if applicable) is waived for coronavirus-related distributions. The withdrawals are taxable as income, but the tax can be spread over three years, and you can elect to repay it within three years. Additionally, the 20 percent standard income tax withholding at the time of distribution is not required.

To apply for a coronavirus-related withdrawal, call 877.457.6263 to request a form.

Retirement plan loan

The maximum loan amount is increased from $50,000 (or 50 percent of your vested account balance) to $100,000 (or 100 percent of your vested balance) for a coronavirus-related need.¹ This increase applies to loans taken through September 22, 2020.
